

Project based Learning Outcomes

For IB students

Strength & growth

Through structured learning outcomes, you are empowered to recognize themselves as individuals with diverse skills and capabilities, evolving at unique paces. This fosters an understanding that gives you the agency to make informed choices about your personal and professional growth trajectories.

Challenge & skills

Learning the skill to challenge and build skills equips you to demonstrate their newly acquired abilities through projects, ensuring you can confidently apply these skills in any future endeavour.

Initiative & planning

Through targeted learning outcomes, you cultivate the ability to take initiative and plan effectively. They develop proficiency in articulating the stages involved—from conceiving an idea to executing a collaborative plan—with other participants, fostering a robust capability for proactive leadership and project management.

Collaboration

Through this project, you will develop the ability to collaborate and work well with others, enhancing your teamwork and interpersonal skills. This collaborative process will enable you to contribute to and benefit from diverse perspectives and expertise.

Perseverance and Commitment

You learn to showcase perseverance and commitment by actively engaging in projects, demonstrating consistent involvement and responsibility in addressing challenges that arise. This process enables them to develop and exhibit resilience, fostering a proactive approach to problem-solving and a steadfast commitment to project success.

Global/local engagement

Through this project, you will cultivate skills in global and local engagement, gaining the ability to identify and comprehend global issues. You will learn to make informed and responsible decisions, taking appropriate actions to address these issues at local, national, or international levels, thereby contributing meaningfully to global initiatives and community development.

Ethics of choices and actions

You will develop the ability to recognize and consider the ethics of their choices and actions through this project. You will gain awareness of ethical decision-making processes and understand the potential consequences of your choices and actions.
